Description of commands in the context menu

The context menu can be applied to the repository item whose detail is currently displayed.
The elements of this context menu may vary depending on the type of element that is displayed.
Thus, different commands may be available if the diagram detail is displayed and different commands if the element detail is displayed.
Some commands are common to all types and are therefore always displayed.

Use  to display the context menu.

To open a drop-down menu of options related to an artifact, the user left-clicks on the arrow icon in the upper right corner of the artifact detail.

The menu is unpacked.
