

Setting user and group permissions

There are 3 levels of authorisation:

- The lowest permission is "Reader", who can see the published diagrams but cannot manipulate them. This means that he has no right to approve or reject the publication.
- The "Approver" can approve or reject the publication, or later historicize it.
- The "Owner" has the highest authority. He can approve, reject and historicize a publication. He can set the section name, comments and section color, and most importantly the section permissions.

- The user permission "Owner" has no restrictions in the section and its subsections.
- User permissions "Approver" and "Reader" are affected in subsections where they do not have exclusive personal permission and the default permission is set.
- User permissions take precedence over the default permission in that section. Subsections that do not have the default permission set inherit the user permission.
